A medical emergency can happen anywhere at any time and every second counts. Make an emergency plan for your child today!

Why Sign Up?

Patient at Risk gives emergency medical providers fast access to information about your child's health:

- Health problems or conditions
- Current medications
- Special care instructions including hospital preferences
- Contact information for your child's Physicians

The Patient at Risk Program creates an online Emergency Information Form (EIF) for children with special health care needs which will:

- Help families and their health care team make a plan for an emergency.
- Allow emergency medical providers to plan and prepare for your child.
- Provide health information needed during a medical crisis.

Frequently Asked Questions

I don't have a computer? Can I still use the Patient at Risk Program?
Yes! You can use any computer to register. There are computers at your local library. The Regional Center for Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs can also help, call 1-800-642-7837.

Is this site secure?

Yes! In addition to strict behind-the-scenes security measures like 128-bit SSL encryption and servers located in physically secure locations, all users must create a personal password. Also, you control who can see your child's information.

What should I keep with me?

Keep a copy of your registration card and the most recent Emergency Information Form (EIF) with you or your child.

What's Next?

Share a copy of your child's EIF with your child's physician & local emergency medical providers.

One Family's Story ...

Anne did what any parent would do when her child needed medical help. She called 911.

She expected the emergency medical providers that came to help would be familiar with the treatment and medical equipment her son Sam needed.

Anne thought she was ready for any emergency. But Sam got sick too fast. The emergency medical providers did not have enough time to take him to his usual hospital. 7-year-old Sam died that day, losing his battle with mitochondrial disease.

Parents of children with special health care needs know their child's care. However, we can be better prepared by sharing the care plan with Emergency Medical Providers.

“Having a plan will make sure that everything possible that can be done for your child, will be done,” Anne said.

Be prepared. Participate today!
