

2025 - Recap

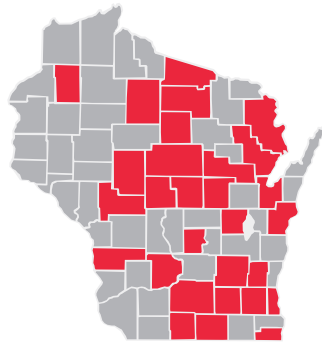

WISCONSIN CHILD DEATH SCENE INVESTIGATION TRAININGS

98
Attendees

From across Wisconsin representing 65 agencies: child protective services, coroners, emergency medical services, law enforcement, medical examiners and physicians

29
Counties

70
Kits

Doll reenactment kit contents provided to local agencies: duffel bag, doll, placed and found cards

Post-survey results

Attendees' percentage of correct responses increased between the pre and post-test for 100% of questions.

Additional results

100%

Would recommend the training to a colleague

95%

Felt the information was clearly articulated and presented

95%

Felt the instructors were engaging and knowledgeable

95%

Felt the material was relevant to their work

Sample comments

WHAT ATTENDEES ENJOYED MOST

"The training was a great length of time for the content and very engaging. I liked that law enforcement and medical examiner joined together to conduct the training. They were very knowledgeable and presented the content very well."

"The training was very informational and provided helpful information to conduct a thorough investigation. It was useful that they detailed different types of injuries, provided case studies and true experience in the matter."

"The doll reenactment portion was very useful to my work. I liked going over the case studies and seeing the actual doll reenactment videos to better understand the process."

ATTENDEE IDEAS FOR IMPROVEMENT

"I wish the training could be extended in time due to the amount of content. This would allow for more time to touch more on documenting for law enforcement and review of warrants when consent is not granted. I also think there was not enough time to go over everything the speakers wanted to."

"Maybe some hands on in a group with an instructor. If it could be more interactive and hands on that would be helpful."

"I would have appreciated a note at the beginning that there would be photos of deceased individuals. Someone I was with said that was her first time seeing a dead child. Also, if the training could be moved around the state it would encourage more people to participate."

This training was made possible with support from the Wisconsin Department of Justice and Walworth County Medical Examiner's Office.